

who owns our airwaves? WE, THE PEOPLE. Yet Sinclair Broadcasting insists it is going to use them to present an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election with no chance of a Kerry rebuttal. This is offensive and illegal. Sinclair uses the public airwaves free of charge, and is obligated by law to serve the public interest. If Sinclair goes through with its plan, I believe the license of every one of its stations that airs this film footage should be refused renewal of its license. I also believe that it is not in the public interest to allow giant companies to own so many stations because we need news from balanced coverage of political events from a variety of sources. Democracy depends on openness and diversity of points of view in journalism.

Thank you for taking an interest in this very important matter.
